

Roman Merels

Roman Merels

Merels is a board game from Roman times. It is simple to make and play at home!

1. Make your board and counters. We have given you a board, now you need to make or find your own counters. Both players need 9 counters each.
2. Take it in turns to place your counters on the board on the large black dots. The youngest player goes first.
3. Once all the counters are on the board, you can begin. Take it in turns to move your counters along the lines to a free spot.
4. Once a player has three of their counters in a line, they can remove a counter from the other player (diagonal lines don't count!)
5. Keep playing until one player has only 2 counters left, so cannot win.

Well done! You can now play the Roman game of Merels!
